

Chrysalis

The unborn soldier waits to kill;
The butterfly, to spread its wings.
The one to do another's will;
The other, rise to higher things.

Who dares to know the mystery
Within the silken womb concealed?
The soldier's judge is history;
The butterfly's, the field.