

Citadels of Glass

Intro Em

1.

Em

Every day at nine o'clock, you climb your ivory tower

Em

And you look down on the poisoned town, from your leather seat of power

Em

And with the stroke of a pen you change the lives of the people down below

Em

And you hide away from the light of day, so no-one will ever know

Chorus:

C D7 Em

But you can't live forever in citadels of glass

C D7 Em

No, the sun won't shine forever on citadels of glass

Am Em

You're only a stone's throw away

C D7 Em

No, you can't hide forever in citadels of glass

2.

You go to lunch in a quiet spot, and you sit by a pine-log fire

But you keep your eye on that piece of sky where your concrete dreams aspire

And you eat your meal and you score your deal, and you play with your silver spoon

And you soon forget that the sun can set, on a midnight sky at noon

Chorus

Instrumental (Em)
